PHILADELPHIA IS ANXIOUS THAT N. Y. WIN LEAGUE

"Come on, you Giants!" is the slogan in Philadelphia as well as in New York. Followers of the Athletics are anxious to have the Giants land the National League pennant for several reasons. Thousands who find it impossible to make a long trip to the west could see the games if played in Philadelphia and New York. So far as the owners of the Athletics and the players are concerned the question of revenge for the defeat of the Athletics in 1905 does not enter into consideration.

At home the Athletics' long home has some ambitions, sentimental. When a member of the Athletics was asked recently what National league team he would most like to see win the pennant, he replied, "The Giants, of course." It is supposed that is because of that beating they gave you the last time the Athletics met them in the world's series.

"It is because the new Polo grounds can accommodate more spectators than any other place in the country," replied the most honest athlete.

So why think for a moment that the Philadelphia enthusiasts beautify me ability of the Giants. On the contrary they have the highest respect for the team.

The lookouts of the Athletics, a relative of Connie Mack, recently said the following regarding the Giants after carefully inspecting their style of play:

"That team will be harder to beat than the Cubs ever could be under present conditions. The team has lost most of its stars. Frank Chance as a playing manager was without a peer, but he has yet to show his ability as a leader from the bench. The team has lost many of its leaders in fighters. There is not a man on the team who seems to have anything in mind but winning. I went out expecting to see some points of weakness in the Giants, but I could find none that looked large."

"Outside of battery, the Giants are not a player who would not be rated as a specialist. Sizing up the team, I would say that Johnson and Meyers are about con't in 'em,' but I think that Thomas has professed greatly by his experience to overcome his lack of skill. He is a very reliable man on the team who seems to have anything in mind but winning. I went out expecting to see some points of weakness in the Giants, but I could find none that looked large."

"Johnson has not been the wonder he was last year, but he is a mighty cool-weather twirler. At first base I was surprised at the keenness with which he plays. He is a boy who has learned to show his horsemanship. He has been a remarkable athlete to live down the incident of 1908. I think he has a shade of Harry first baseman. Morris, though a good boy, has not hit. Eddie Collins is out on Harry's tail, Eddie is just as brilliant in the field as Pfeiffer, but he has not been con't in as well. As far as I understand, I would give Harry the edge."

"Baker and Herzog as third basemen are both clever, but give the Baker for his long drives. What going to do with the middle fielding performances? I do not think the outfit of the Athletics can compare with the trio of the Giants for speed, and the ability of the Athletics' batters seems to me you can obtain elsewhere. Come and see what I can do for you.

STRAY TOPICS FROM LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

Jews of Continent Opening of Their New Year—Burglars Cause Gothamites Considerable Trouble—Nature Fakir Is Again Distanced by a New Yorker

New York, September 25.—At summer's end the Jews of New York had and today have more than 1,000,000 people in Greater New York are celebrating the event. It is a rather unusual fact that there are more Jews in New York City than all the rest of the country taken together. The total number of Jews in the United States is nearly 2,000,000. The overwhelming majority of these Jews live in Greater New York; in Chicago, 180,000; in Philadelphia,
100,000; Boston, 80,000; in St.
Louis, 50,000; in Pittsburgh, 45,000;
in Baltimore, 35,000; in San Francisco, 33,000; in Cincinnati, 30,000; in Minneapolis and St. Paul, 28,000.

The larger part of these Jews have come to America within the last twenty-five years and the rate of increase from this source is rapidly advancing.

The position of influence occupied by the Jews in America is beyond what might be indicated by their numbers. They are an important factor in the world of finance, industry and politics. It is stated that the Jews in New York City alone, about 3,000 Jewish lawyers and more than 1,000 Jewish physicians. In each of the leading cities, such as Boston and Chicago, where there are six priests who are from one to six priests who belong to the Hebrew race. The theatrical enterprises are almost entirely in the hands of the Jews, and the position of influence in the theatrical profession is steadily increasing. It is also a fact that many of the leading daily papers in the country are owned and controlled by Jews.

The recent issue report of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor indicates greater poverty than a year ago, a year ago, of about $800 worth of jewelry and bracelets.

The rubor worked without warning, detection, as there was no body in the house and the burglar was able to get away with his theft of the house all the while under surveillance. Mr. Loewe was greatly mortified when he found out that his dog had been robbed right before his own eyes.

Almost every day brings to light some of the nefarious features of the new "Gun-Law," which will soon be tested in the courts. The latest case involved four of an automobile which came to this city from Connecticut, was arrested because he had a revolver in his pocket. He was given the facts that during the past summer many automobiles touring in the east have been held up and the occupants robbed by highwaymen, many of whom were carrying revolvers in their pockets or in their boxes as a matter of self-protection. The Sullivan law places them in a decidedly awkward position. If it is carried out as planned, they are liable to be sent to jail; if they are not armed, they are liable to be held up and robbed. He is firmly convinced that the police should be trusted with the power to shoot his car; then he requested that he had often tossed nickels and dimes to his dog to catch him and never had any kind of change.

He is a very conscientious that the dog saved up his nickels and dimes and when he had enough, had them exchanged for coins.

During his wife's taken possession of and worn one of his shirts, a mechanic in Williamsburg nearly killed his wife and other guests, shooting seven times. When arrested, the man expressed no regret for his deed. So famous was he still that he said he was sorry he didn't have a pistol to riddle his wife with bullets.

TO REJECT AMALGAMATION
WOULD BE SIMPLY ABSURD.

Citizens of Edmonton and Strathcona will vote tomorrow on the most important civic question that has been submitted in many years, the question of amalgamation.

If the citizens of both cities vote in the best interests of the cities in which they live they will vote in favor of amalgamation.

The mere fact that there exist two cities on opposite banks of the river, each one served by the same kind of utilities, administered in practically the same way, enjoying the same advantages and facing the same difficulties and necessities, looking forward to development on exactly the same lines and with absolutely nothing to keep them separate and distinct except the course of the Saskatchewan is alone reason enough for amalgamation.

The agreement under which it is proposed to carry out the amalgamation is at fault in the respect that it should have made some provision for a new and improved system of municipal government to take the place of the antiquated municipal systems existing in both towns at the present time but this failure can be remedied by the adoption of the commission system at some later date and should therefore not be made the basis for a vote against amalgamation.

Edmonton and Strathcona have everything to gain and nothing to lose by amalgamation. By pooling their interests they become at once the strongest city in the west, they have the opportunity to enjoy the advantages of what must be the most economical municipal government in the west and they will have the best, most efficient and most economically managed municipal utilities on the North American continent.

The votes of the electors will undoubtedly be overwhelmingly in favor of amalgamation.

VOTE IN FAVOR OF MUNICIPAL GAS

While the ratepayers are voting on the question of amalgamation tomorrow they are asked to vote on a plebiscite to decide whether or not they are willing to give the gas franchise away—or, to put it more distinctly, whether they prefer municipal or corporation gas.

To this question there should be but one answer, municipal gas.

The council in its handling of the gas business has shown a remarkable disinclination toward giving the ratepayers an opportunity to vote for municipal gas, having already given a corporation project a clear right of way ahead of the municipal project. Now they submit a plebiscite which, if carried does not actually provide for a gas plant but merely expresses public approval of the principle of municipal ownership as applied to the gas enterprise.

If, however, the vote on this plebiscite is adverse the council will take it as instruction to make a new agreement with some other gas corporation. Some one or other of these gas agreements is likely to get past the ratepayers sooner or later.

In order, therefore, to preserve the gas franchise to the city it is essential that the ratepayers vote tomorrow against corporation gas and in favor of municipal gas.

There are a thousand reasons why the city should retain the gas franchise, but there is no sound reason why the citizens should vote in favor of giving the gas franchise away for nothing when there is not even a proposition before the council.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR AN INVESTIGATION

When Frank Oliver was asking for the votes of the electors of the Edmonton district he declared that one of the most urgent reasons why he should be elected was to give him an opportunity to go to Ottawa and demand an investigation into his affairs to the end that the public might be satisfied.

When R. L. Borden was leader of the opposition he demanded that there be made the most sweeping investigation into Frank Oliver's affairs, public and private, in order that public life in Canada be relieved of the suggestion of graft.

Frank Oliver has been returned as representative of the district of Edmonton and the same elections have made R. L. Borden premier of Canada.

The position, therefore, is now that Frank Oliver will have an opportunity to make his demand for an investigation to a premier who is on the other side of politics and who is pledged to make the investigation as thorough and sweeping as humanly possible.

All things considered, it seems as though Frank Oliver is going to have the opportunity he craves to become the subject of an investigation. In fact, it looks as though he would have a hard time avoiding one unless he is satisfied to carry out his threat of going back to driving oxen.

How Bert Dawson Reformed

By Kenneth Harris.

A woman will stand a right smart from her husband, but there's alius a point where she draws the line," observed the checkerboard player.
"There certainly is. It's right arost the woodpile where a fellter' ketch his axe in it when he goes out to saw a little winter wood down," said Bert, smiling, fractions.

"I don't mean chot's line," the store-keeper explained seriously. "I mean there's a limit to her indulgence."

Bert took the stem of his pipe from his mouth.

"There's about forty-seven on 'em," he remarked.

"I'm right with Uncle Levi there," argued Eliza Baxter. "She'll put up with somethings, but she hasn't got to have her kitchen floor tracked in with her vittles or her dish towels used for rags. I seen a fellow wagon axles or the soap left in the wash-hoss or her kid hit with a neck-yawed log. I seen that when I went to the last straw and there enough last straws with most women to bed down the stock for the Winter."

"Well, it's not my blood bise to see the way some men houses their wives," said the storekeeper.

Cousin Jonas.

"I'm that-a-way myself," declared Washington Hancock.

"Any I just after buyin' somethin' down at coal, oil, and gas, I always know that alius fell he had to mix in with such cases. He stood six-foot-three with his boots off, Cousin Jonas did, and he had a look about the size of a smoked shoulder," gruffly speaker, he could afford to.

"There was a feller lived neighbor to us by the name of Bert Dawson, he'd say, 'I reckon he liked her study two or three times a week for years. She was a little, puny-looking sort of a woman, am' Bert was a strappin', musky-minded, given a considerable to inkier. There was talk of him getting a job at the mine, but then he switched to learn how to bejave, only Mrs. Dawson seemed to sort of enjoy being liked, the way she talked. To me she was a good woman, but I never thought a husband am' wudn't hurt a girl. All them black eyes she went around with she got runnin' into parson's eye, and in the end, of course, her feet, she allowed, was right keeless about lookin' where she stepped on that she took spills of tollerance about notion ever' once in a while."

"Well, you-all know you can't do much when a woman acts that-a-way,"

"I suppose you-all lit out about the grand old place?"

"With a vengeance," declared Hancock, innocently. "She done told us to, 'You boys git on your horses and ride, says she, and they did, and I says, 'I'm obliged to you both, but I reckon I kin handle him myself now.'"

"Did you ride?" asked Baxter.

"Hancock nodded.

"Then she cured him?" asked the storekeeper.

Hancock nodded again. "But she done run him off first," he said.

LITTLE BOBBIE'S PA

By William F. Kirk

Wife, sed Pa yesterday, you ree-member, had litt'l Sam Morse that used to be all the time kindest and dearest to me, and now I've got to use to call me Honey." Well, sed Pa, at last I got something to say him. After I kid him awhile about his vittles, I said, "Pa, I know what he wants to say, but I know you're not any moar."

What is all the big talk about?" sed Ma, and who is Sam Morse? You know, sed Pa, and Morse, he's the boy that was all the time calling me fat, Ha, ha, sed Pa. I have certainly got on him now."

Well, sed Ma, you ate us well be talking about that as about somethin' else, show it out."

Tow off like I told you, sed Pa, then she straight up uses share:

As I have often told you, dear, sed Ma, I learned all the slants that I am from you, and I am still a good son, Ma, that your deer liss have formed clout shlong to stock a farm for turlock connedians, set Ma. Are you, set Ma, and you vittles & co. I am now."

Well, sed Ma, you ate us well be talking about that as about somethin' else, show it out."

As I have often told you, dear, sed Ma, I learned all the slants that I am from you, and I am still a good son, Ma, that your deer liss have formed clout shlong to stock a farm for turlock connedians, set Ma.

So Sam, awake, looked about the room, and round the eye, and found his wife with his hands in the trunk. The expression had look at him when he slept the innocent sleep of a newspaper man, and there was Sam, with nothing but his bedsheet draped & draped and tied down to his waist.

Then, sed Pa, morning came, the bullett ping dinged that makes us all forget the time, and the sun comes up, then that makes a man yearn for a better career & sun, lawyer. My friend Sam, awake, looked about the room, and round the eye, and found his wife with his hands in the trunk. The expression had look at him when he slept the innocent sleep of a newspaper man, and there was Sam, with nothing but his bedsheet draped & draped and tied down to his waist.

After three or four hours of honest-en-devous sed Pa, my friend, got dressed & arrayed himself in his Sunday suit. All of whut should seem, set Ma, that a newspaper man has his vittles & co. Goodbye, Ma said.

But, my dear, sed Pa, said Ma.

Colonel Henry Watterson was speaking on day to a hero who had been arrested for running an illicit still. "What is your name?" he asked the hero.

"Joshua, Morse, Henry, Joshua Green."

"Are you the Joshua mentioned in the Bible?" asked the man stand still.

"No, Sir," answered the puzzled darky, "I didn't make the sun stand still, but I made the moon stop."

This incident reminded me of an Irish story I used to tell.

"Mike, it's a wonder to me you don't want to be a shamus."

"Well, I'll tell you, there's not a talent in Dublin can measure me, I'm so ticklish."

The unexpected twist that is supposed to be peculiar to American humor seems to appear also in Scotch stories. For example, one which was told me by Mr. Andrew Gilmour of a Scotchman recited by a military plectrum:

"Who are you?" challenged the soldier.

"I'm Mike," answered Sandy. "Who's yourself?"

ORIENTAL RUGS

Rich and Rare Beauty

You are invited to come and see our magnificent display of Turkish and Persian Oriental Rugs. In all there are about 300 of these gems of ancient art, ranging in price all the way from $11.00 to $4000 apiece. Each has been the subject of an individual selection, chosen for its individual beauty of coloring and its own distinctive merits of design.

In them you will see the same wonderful construction, the same imperishable shades that seem to gather greater beauty as the days pass, and the mystic art which characterized the rugs that adorned the ancient palaces of Babylon. This exhibit will be of more than ordinary interest to those having an office or a room at home to furnish, and when we tell you that all extravagance has been pruned from the prices the luxury of possessing one will be the more enjoyable. Come and see them.

At the present rate of development and growth Edmonton will have a population of 100,000 in 1915 and an assessed valuation of $130,000,000. Its street railway mileage will be 90 miles; paved streets and boulevards, 70 miles; 200 miles of sewers; 250 miles of water mains.
